

HYMER takes advantage of more Fiat power

When it comes to part and fully-integrated motorhomes on Fiat chassis, HYMER now relies even for its basic model on the new Fiat Ducato with high-performance 130 hp engine and very driver-friendly six-gear transmission. That gives HYMER customers the familiar excellent body standards and top features, plus superior chassis and engine quality and above-average value for money.

Bad Waldsee, August 2011

Starting with the new 2012 model generation, all part and fully-integrated Fiat-based motorhomes from HYMER – including the basic model - will feature the new Fiat Ducato chassis with a more powerful 130 hp engine and driver-friendly six-gear transmission. Bernhard Kibler, Head of Marketing at HYMER, emphasises the exceptional driveability that comes with the more powerful four-cylinder turbo diesel engine with 2.3-litre cylinder capacity, and especially with the larger transmission. All new Fiat engines comply with the eco-friendly Euro 5 standard, ensuring very low consumption despite higher performance.

Since the launch of the original model 30 years ago, 2.2 million Fiat Ducatos have been sold. Currently, the Fiat Ducato has a market share of 69 percent – putting it easily in pole position among motorhomes in Germany.

Apart from the 130 hp version, Fiat's new chassis generation includes three more Multijet engines. They are the 115 hp (five gears/2.0-litre cylinder capacity), 148 hp (six gears/2.3-litre cylinder capacity) and 177 hp (3.0-litre cylinder capacity) models, as well as the optional automatic transmission.

It's not only the latest green technology (including particle filters as a standard feature) and extra power that make the Fiat Ducato chassis so attractive. The completely upgraded interior is also stunning to look at.
